My presidential year began with the successful recruiting of members to fill the roles of committee chairs and interest group conveners, followed by recruiting members to serve on the committees. We had many great volunteers this year that has made being President a joy.

The Nominating Committee did fabulous work by having two people running for nearly every open position, a situation that has not always occurred in our relatively small organization. Likewise, the Awards Committee made wise choices for While there were a number of committee and interest group meetings held at Midwinter 2015 the only actual program was a preconference on Using Comics to Promote Literacy. However, Annual 2015 has a full array of programs, including -selling author and social media expert Charlene Li; the ASCLA Awards Reception co-sponsored with COSLA; and programs with topics on the Americans with Disabilities Act, strategic foresight and scenario planning, A to Z of RFPs, What is a consultant, AIDS in the End Zone (working with incarcerated youth), Gaming for All (persons with disabilities), Next Chapter Book Qub (for persons with disabilities), Consultants Give Back, Introduction to Conference and Event Planning, the Library as Community Science Center and finally a tour of the San Francisco Juvenile Justice Center.

The two Midwinter Executive Board meetings were held including the annual Leadership Forum. This year an expert in multi-generational workplaces spoke to the group about the challenges and rewards of having four generations in the
